Description

This is a fairly complete set, especially since it includes the relatively hard-to-find table knives.The Boreal model was created by Luc Lanel (1893 - 1965) in 1929. This designer is the designer of almost all of Christofle's Art Deco pieces.The sobriety of the Boreal model makes it appear astonishingly modern. The elongated, flared handles are barely curved and highlighted by two flats along the length that widen as they descend to accentuate the flared appearance. The spatula is cut straight across with broken corners.In all of Luc Lanel's creations, only the América model shows a real resemblance, except that the flats go around the handle instead of stopping at the corners.The silver-plated cutlery set that we are offering is in very good condition and has a beautiful shine. Some pieces have
