Stipo Monetiére, Piedmont, 17th Century - Cabinet with Eight Drawers Walnut, Italy, 17th century Do not hesitate to contact us for any further information. Central door with a large moulded lozenge motif. Eight symmetrically arranged peripheral drawers. Woods: walnut (exterior) / pine (interior). Originally, this cabinet would have been placed on a low stand or atop a chest; the two current "legs" are later additions, transforming it into a high-standing cabinet. The interior reveals three fixed shelves. This was likely intended as a repository for precious documents, coins, or personal objects within a noble domestic setting. It also features small concealed compartments beneath the lower shelf. Late Renaissance / rural Baroque, with discernible Spanish influences in its geometric
