Description

Photograph and signature. Vaslav Nijinsky (Kyiv, 1890-London, 1950), 1914. Vaslav Nijinsky (transliterated Vátslav Fomich Nizhinski) was a Polish-born Russian ballet dancer and choreographer, considered one of the most gifted in history. He is most notable for his encounter with Sergei Diaghilev, a member of the Saint Petersburg elite and an important patron of the arts, who promoted Russian visual and musical arts abroad, particularly in Paris. During the First World War, Nijinsky was placed under house arrest in Hungary because he was a Russian citizen. Diaghilev managed to get Nijinsky out of the country thanks to the intervention of Alfonso XIII and his Oficina Pro Cautivos (Office for the Protection of Prisoners). The signature is accompanied by a photograph of
