Description

We present this rare and valuable Italian antique bedside table dating back to the first decades of the 18th Century.Made of solid walnut wood and featuring a front with decorative panels. Its design line is typical of furniture from the Tuscan region.It may seem to have drawers, but this is an illusory effect because it has a door and a practical internal compartment with a shelf. Note that originally it probably really had drawers that for practicality have been transformed into a door over the centuries.Spectacular pendant handles on the front in chiseled bronze that have acquired a beautiful antique patina.
