Description

We offer you this splendid antique column in Italian marble, dating back to the end of the 19th century during the Napoleon III period. A perfect column to become the centerpiece of your decor. Characterized by a simple structure but made with two marbles of different colors to create a great scenographic effect. The marble of a particular yellow shade of the Tuscan area alternates with the green marble typical of the Alpine area. Delicious bronze details give a particular accent. The column shows signs of wear compatible with age and use. It has no structural damage that compromises its stability, but there are two small defects (look carefully at the photos in detail).
