Description

Pair of ceramic plates made by Alessio Tasca (Nove, 1929-2020) in the 1950s, decorated using the sgraffito technique on colored glaze. The subjects are inspired by famous Venetian paintings: Diana and Actaeon, after Giambattista Pittoni; Venus and Adonis, after Paolo Veronese. The designs are created by incising the reddish glaze while still fresh, revealing the lighter background underneath and producing a refined graphic effect. Both plates are signed on the front and inscribed on the reverse with the title and painter of reference. Diameter: 34 cm. Very good overall condition. Please contact us for further information. Worldwide shipping available.
