Description

Superb double dromedary bag from Persia attributed to the nomadic Bathiyari populations. Importantly, this is not a patchwork at all or at least not pieces sewn together. The object is woven, embroidered and knotted on the same chain. This type of piece is rather rare and this one is in a state of conservation close to the miracle. Vegetable dyes in perfect harmony. The indigo blues are lovely. Very beautiful patina. The whole is attractive, for an everyday object that was once used to transport goods. A true work of art and a prized collector's item.
