Description

Neo-Impressionist School. Oil on plywood panel "small market in old Nice" signed lower right JSeverin. Belgian School. 90 X 60 cm. Juliaan Severin (1888-1975) was a student at the Academy of Fine Arts in Antwerp (Belgium). In Belgium, he received advice from Edmond Verstraeten (1870-1956), while in France, in Paris, where he went during the First World War, he met the great master of Impressionism Claude Monet (1840-1926). Severin's work took a clear direction thanks to the valuable lessons he had learned. Severin is the perfect example of the work of the Belgian Neo-Impressionist School active at the beginning of the 20th century. Wooden baguette frame and gilded stucco from the period (1920s-1930s). Good condition. 750 euros.
