Description

A refined pair of globular vases crafted from glazed porcelain, adorned with rich floral motifs and green oval reserves bearing symbols of prosperity and longevity. The decoration, typical of traditional Chinese art, features vibrant shades of blue, pink, green, and yellow, harmoniously distributed across the entire surface. The fluted base in brick-red enamel culminates in a finely chased gilded frame. The lids, featuring openwork floral motifs, are surmounted by gilded statuettes depicting Lions of Fu, traditional emblems of protection and imperial power. The quality of the workmanship, the chromatic balance, and the attention to detail testify to the mastery of Chinese artisans active during the Qing period. Period: Late 19th century; Provenance: China, late Qing Dynasty
