Description

This fascinating Art Deco sculpture was created in France around 1930; based on a design by Georges Gori , creator of exotic dancers and elegant Art Deco figures , who worked in Paris between the 1920s and 1940s. In this work, despite the classical theme of motherhood , Gori does not focus on the tenderness of an embrace , but rather captures stylized movement through gestures and poses , just like the young mother's dress , fitted to the torso and pleated at the hem.

The elegant pose of the figure and the delicacy of her dress are rendered with striking precision.

Georges Gori (active 1920 - 1940) , metal , ivoirine and onyx , signed on the base "G.Gori".
