Description

This is a hand-decorated oval porcelain plaque, perfectly framed in silver filigree. The image depicts the Madonna, elevated and in prayer, surrounded by angels or cherubs.

This technique was highly appreciated between the late 19th and early 20th centuries, and was often used to enhance religious devotional objects such as medallions, plaques, and icons.

The object is part of the tradition of porcelain religious miniatures mounted on elegant supports, often intended for domestic chapels or as devotional objects for display.
