Description

Rare articulated desk lamp from the Belgian company ERPE, model no. 52, made in Belgium around the 1950s. It is distinguished by a functionalist and modernist design, typical of the post-war period, where industrial aesthetics are combined with rational simplicity. The lamp is composed of a black enameled cast iron base, embossed with the words "ERPE MADE IN BELGIUM", a black lacquered metal arm articulated by two pivots, and an asymmetrical metal lampshade, adjustable, allowing targeted diffusion of light. The design is both minimalist and ergonomic, reflecting the functional aesthetics of the post-war period. This model is highly sought after by collectors of 20th-century Belgian and European industrial design.
