Description

Ring adorned with an 8 escudo coin minted in 1787 representing King Charles III of Spain, mounted on a discreet setting so as to reveal no other metal and to highlight only the coin. This is nevertheless punctuated with four old-cut diamonds set on platinum to emphasize its precious character. The ring is therefore made of monetary gold, 18 KT yellow gold (eagle and owl head hallmarks), and platinum (mascaron head hallmark). The old-cut diamonds are mounted in square settings, in balance with the overall roundness of the ring. The ring itself, of the "Parisian bangle" type, is very soft. Its volume is extremely flat on the finger. Around the bust of the sovereign is the inscription: DG HISP.R 1787 CAROL.III.DG HISP.R means: Dei Gratia Hispaniarum Rex, which translates to: "By the
