480 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Wrought iron

Description

Pair of wrought iron torchères, likely of Italian origin, dating from the late 19th to early 20th century.

Each torchère features a twisted central shaft, adorned with elegant scrollwork and topped by a floral crown-shaped holder with a central spike for candles.

The base consists of four outward-curving legs, gracefully shaped to ensure excellent balance and stability. The surface shows an authentic patina, with minor signs of age and slight irregularities that suggest hand-forged craftsmanship.

Perfect for furnishing historic interiors, chapels, salons, or theatrical settings with classical or rustic character.
