Description

Lovely little bronze clock in Louis XV style, from the end of the 19th century (circa 1880). Bronze body decorated with garlands, on the top, a pair of doves are pecking each other as a symbol of love, union... The dial is enamel, with chiseled bronze hands, in Louis XV style, and Roman numerals. The dial bears a signature: Henry Voisin in Paris. The movement has a Brocot type escapement, strikes the hour and half past and is signed J. Lefebvre et Fils and numbered. Domed glass front and back. We have the key and the pendulum, and the clock is in perfect working order. Note: chips in the winding holes, visible in the photos.
