Description

Rare and beautiful pair of oil lamps from the Napoleon III period, complete with their tube and globe in frosted glass, in white opaline, mounted in gilt bronze, magnificent ornamented bases and equally beautiful and well-gilded top. Large in size, these beautiful and "luminous" living room lamps form a beautiful decorative and useful set to enhance two points of light. In the model and well preserved, these beautiful pieces have a real decorative and refined asset, for a living room, a library, as an elegant fireplace trim, in a beautiful sobriety; their proportion, their shape, their quality through the choice used of the chosen materials, well-chiseled gilt bronze and well-blown white opaline, make these two beautiful preserved pieces a beautiful presence through their beauty and their condition...
