Description

? Writing silence, in the shadow of imperial style:
Oak writing table, Napoleon III style
There are pieces of furniture that seem to have survived the centuries without losing their nobility. This solid oak writing table, in the Napoleon III style, is one of those silent witnesses to the French taste for balance, symmetry and understated elegance.
With its finely crafted turned legs, its central drawer adorned with a ring handle, and its slightly curved top, it embodies all the refinement of utilitarian furniture that has become decorative. It measures 73 cm high, 75 cm long and 55 cm wide, with a comfortable leg height of 60 cm - perfect for sitting and writing, dreaming, drawing or simply reflecting. Under the top, the drawer opens to hold notebooks, pens, keys or secrets, while the lower solid wood shelf invites you to place a few books or an old box. Its Napoleon III style, sober but assertive, makes it an ideal centerpiece in a classic interior, a country house or even an eclectic atmosphere, mixing the old and the contemporary. It is a table that imposes nothing but suggests everything: the intimacy of a personal office, the memory of an inheritance, the promise of calm and inspired moments. Its warm patina and its wood worked in the old style give this table an undeniable charm. It is not only beautiful, it is useful, stable, and above all bearer of memory. A rare piece, ready to find its place in an interior loving character and discretion. Suggested price: EUR170 Circa 1930. Delivery possible in France and worldwide.
