Description

Fine Italian Grand Tour Marble Bust of Emperor Augustus - Mid 19th Century
A finely carved white statuary marble bust depicting a youthful Augustus Caesar, also known as Octavian, dating to the mid-19th century Grand Tour period. This classical piece is modelled after the celebrated original housed in the Vatican's Pio-Clementino Museum. Executed to a very high standard, the sculpture captures the serene authority and idealised features of the first Roman Emperor, reflecting the neoclassical taste and fascination with antiquity that defined the Grand Tour tradition.
