Description

This beautiful oil on canvas by Gaston Anglade depicts a young rider riding a horse bareback as he leaves the main street of a village. This atypical subject for Anglade demonstrates the painter's technical quality throughout the canvas. Both in the foreground (the beautifully crafted horse and rider) and in the perspective and depth of the subject on this large canvas. Born in Bordeaux in 1854, he participated in numerous exhibitions of the Société des Artistes Français. The whole is in perfect condition.
