Description

Pencil drawing, "Silenus with a Crown of Grape Vines" - 19th century

A fascinating 19th-century drawing depicting Silenus, a mythological figure from the court of Dionysus, depicted with an intense and vivid expression. His bearded face, with pronounced features, is surmounted by a crown of grape vines and bunches of grapes, a symbol of intoxication and ancient wisdom. The artist demonstrates remarkable mastery of the graphic line, with a careful interplay of light and shade that lends plasticity and depth to the figure.

The mythological subject and the powerfully expressive face lend this piece a timeless appeal, ideal for collectors and enthusiasts of classical
