Description

Elegant pair of electrified wall lights in solid oak, with a refined design typical of the 1950s. Robert Guillerme (1913-1990) and Jacques Chambron (1914-2001) are a duo of French designers, respectively graduates of the Boule school and the School of Applied Arts in Reims. After meeting in a stalag in East Prussia where they had been taken prisoner during the war, they met in Lille and founded, with the support of Emile Darioseq, owner of a cabinetmaking workshop, the company Votre Maison in 1949. They chose robust materials and simple lines which immediately made them successful. The company remained active until the 2000s. The original fabric is missing. Some marks and wear from time. Good general condition. From the 20th century, 1950s. Dimensions: H: 40 cm W: 50 cm
