Description

Maurice de Vlaminck (1876-1958) is one of the most influential French painters of the 20th century. A passionate autodidact, he established himself as one of the masters of Fauvism alongside Derain and Matisse. His painting is characterized by the use of vivid colors, powerful contrasts, and an energetic touch that prioritizes emotion over academic rigor. Still life occupies a central place among his favorite themes. His bouquets of flowers demonstrate his taste for material and color, revealing a great artistic sensitivity. These works, sought after by art lovers and collectors, reflect the intensity and spontaneity of his style. Le Grenier de Galluis is now offering an authentic painting by Maurice de Vlaminck depicting a bouquet of flowers. This still life, certified by the Wildenstein Plattner
