Description

Set of six pieces of Meissen porcelain and vermeil cutlery in an embossed leather case with beige chamois interior. The box contains: -Six vermeil three-tine forks with porcelain handles decorated with a polychrome floral motif. Each vermeil part has two small foreign hallmarks (discharge or control: one representing an ear of corn and the other a lizard or salamander). -Six gilt-edged knives with porcelain handles with the same designs and hallmarks. -Six vermeil "filet coquille" model dessert spoons, two of which bear four French hallmarks, two of which are identifiable: charge Paris lettre "A", décharge Paris "Tête de poule" for 1750/56. Traces of the discharge mark on the other spoons. On all six spoons there is a small control mark with the letters "C D" inside, probably Central European. The set was assembled
