Description

Very beautiful solid oak chest in Renaissance style. Made in the 19th century, old elements were used for the manufacture of its front, in particular the two side uprights, the two central pilasters as well as the horizontal crosspiece decorated with gadroons in the upper part, and part of the horizontal crosspiece in the lower part. Our piece of furniture has a beautiful waxed patina, we note the absence of a lock, as well as several cracks in the middle of the top between the two boards forming this same top (see last photos).
