Description

Alice BAILLY Geneva, 1872 - Lausanne, 1938.
Switzerland Portrait of a young girl dreaming Painting, oil on canvas Signed "ABailly" twice Painting: 60 x 73 cm Fine 19th century gilded frame: 77 x 90 cm Very good condition History: exhibited at the 7th Exposition nationale des Beaux-Arts in Vevey (Switzerland) in 1901 with the title "Portrait". On the back, an exhibition label with his address in 1901 in Geneva: rue Pierre Fatio 9 and the sale price of the painting: 400 francs Note: this is one of the earliest paintings by Alice Bailly, who had not yet changed her name to Alice Bailly (with an "i"). It dates from 1901, as the exhibition label on the back indicates. The subject matter of this painting is close to that of the great Swiss painter Albert Anker, who made childhood his favorite theme.
