Description

Attributed to the workshop J Chiurazzi and son in Naples After Antiquity Julius Caesar of the camposanto pitti type Bronze with brown patina, veined marble base Italy, late 19th - early 20th century H. 28 x 13 x 8 cm A portrait of Julius Caesar Our bust portrait represents Julius Caesar in the tradition of heroic nudity. Bare-chested, expressive face, our portrait represents the future emperor as a statesman A work probably Neapolitan Made after an antique, our work was probably cast in Naples by the workshop J CHIURAZZI and son. This foundry was the most important of the 19th century for antique-style bronze objects. The success of the Grand Tour for any good person of the 19th century allowed the development of a large production of souvenirs from Italy. Roman finds were not the only ones
