Description

This elegant Haviland Sin Hai porcelain collection is a superb example of mid-20th-century craftsmanship. Haviland is part of the high-end French tableware. It is a renowned French porcelain manufacturer, known for its refined and high-quality pieces. Founded in 1842 by David Haviland, an American businessman who came to France to pursue his passion for fine porcelain, the company has become one of the most prestigious names in the art of porcelain. This service is composed of green celadon porcelain adorned with delicate floral decorations, inspired by traditional Chinese motifs. The luxurious set includes a teapot, a milk jug, a sugar bowl, and twelve cups and saucers. The teapot is decorated with a large pink flower on the lid and floral motifs on the body. It has a handle and a spout for easy serving. The milk jug and twelve cups with saucers feature the same design as the teapot. The Sin Hai pattern is known for its vibrant and detailed designs, bringing an elegant touch to any table. The green celadon glaze gives the porcelain a unique and sophisticated look, while the hand-finished details demonstrate the skill and expertise of the artisans. The inscriptions on the saucers, teapot, and milk jug feature text in both French and Chinese. The French text reads: "The flowers spread the pure fragrances of autumn in the "Sin Hai" year." All pieces bear the "HAVILAND LIMOGES FRANCE" mark. This inscription illustrates the combination of French and Chinese craftsmanship, accentuating the originality and refinement of the tea set. Haviland uses the finest materials and skilled craftsmen to produce its pieces, ensuring exceptional durability and quality. With a rich history dating back to the 19th century, Haviland is today a true symbol of French elegance and luxury. Its fame attracts collectors and connoisseurs from all over the world.
