Description

The Mercure ice bucket, made of 18/10 stainless steel, is part of the iconic collection designed in 1957 by Carlo Mazzeri and Luigi Massoni, two key figures in Italian design. First presented at the 11th Milan Triennale, it marked an important milestone in Alessi's evolution toward authorial design. The special edition "Mercure Oro" dates from the 1970s and is no longer in production. This version is distinguished by a gold rope-shaped border adorning the upper rim. The item consists of 3 pieces: bucket, internal grid, and ice tongs.
