Description

Camille Tharaud, Limoges White biscuit porcelain statuette representing a seated young woman wearing a draped antique dress. The style evokes the neoclassical canons inspired by Greco-Roman statuary, dear to the Empire taste. The piece rests on a base in Four blue enameled porcelain, highlighted with fine gold gilt lines. Delicate work and emblematic of the artistic production of the Tharaud house in the 1930s-1950s, combining sobriety of modeling and brilliance of finishes. Perfect condition
