Description

From the famous Maison Véronèse Paris 8th this pretty glass pendant chandelier from the Murano Workshops of the designer Crétaur Séguso, this lantern ball contains inside a stirrup of three lights in the shape of large stilled horns of plenty alternating with three generous acanthus leaves in plume. Entirely removable and articulated on a thick bronze flange appreciatively sore. The whole suspended on its bronze axis with a long, slender glass blown body with bulbs. This rare piece is neat and removable by its screwed base and signed by the house and its creator.
