

Blue And White "galloping Horse" Dish - China 17th Transitional Period

2 800 EUR

Period : 17th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Porcelain

Diameter : 15,6cm

Description

Small lobed porcelain dish with blue and white decoration depicting a galloping horse among waves, also adorned with prunus blossoms. The wave motif is repeated on the reverse. On the reverse, a Chenghua mark within a double circle. China, 17th century Chongzhen/Shunzi Period (1627-1661) Diameter : 15.6 cm For a similar model, see:- Sotheby's, The Jie Rui Tang Collection, March 20, 2018, lot 380. For a smaller example, see:- Leaping the Dragon Gate, The Sir Michael Butler Collection, 2021, p.176, n.III.2.5a,b. The examples of these dishes referenced in "Leaping the Dragon Gate" are dated to the Chongzhen period. However, other known models are dated to the Shunzhi and Kangxi periods. While we believe our example dates to the Transitional period, it cannot be

Dealer

Galerie Drake

Chinese Porcelain & Chinese Works of Art

Mobile : 0689483023

Paris 75011

excluded that it may date to the early beginning of the Kangxi period. Fritting and small chips around the edge, three hairlines, one is translucent. Some firing defect. More informations and photos on request.