Description

Ivory, turquoise and gold-mounted bracelet - 19th century This delicate 19th-century bracelet embodies the understated refinement of an era when jewelry was meaningful and crafted with meticulous care. Made from fine materials, it combines a central ivory pearl, lightly patinated by time, with two vibrant turquoise pearls, traditionally associated with protection and serenity. Gold spacers highlight the finesse of the setting and demonstrate the craftsmanship of the time. This piece of jewelry could have belonged to a lady of the bourgeoisie or have been given as a token of affection, as a sentimental jewel. A precious testimony to the taste and elegance of the 19th century. Dimensions: Inner diameter: 6.2 cm (2.44 in), Thickness: 0.4 cm (0.16 in)
