Description

Oil on canvas by Victor. ZEPPENFELD In this fascinating 19th-century work, Victor Zeppenfeld captures with rare intensity the arrival of the circus in a village, a moment both magical and full of promise. The scene comes alive around an intrepid tamer who guides an astonishing trio of animals: a camel, a mischievous monkey, and an imposing bear. Every detail testifies to Zeppenfeld's delicate craftsmanship, which knows how to convey both the dynamics of the show and the villagers' curiosity and wonder. The painter casts a spellbound gaze on this traveling universe, a symbol of escape, exoticism, and dreams, where the extraordinary invites itself into the everyday. Through the vivid colors and meticulous lines, this canvas evokes not only the fascination with the circus but also the story of a
