Description

Tabriz Khoy rug circa 1980 in very finely hand-knotted wool allowing for a large passage. .This piece measures 195 cm wide x 258 cm long. Khoy are rugs that are not very common on the market. This rug is impeccable, the wool, soft and thick, is knotted admirably finely, tightly, and reveals nuances full of contrasts in a repetitive and learned decoration both on its field and on these admirable borders. The shiny wool resembles silk giving the decoration a moiré effect. The shades of red, blue, yellow and green combine perfectly. The fringes are clean, in very good condition and finish this high quality rug whose pile is impeccable. This Indo-Persian rug dates from the 1980s, is in very good condition. Tabriz (Azerbaijani: Təbriz/ تَبریز, formerly Tauris), is the capital of the province of East
