Description

Elegant Louis XV chair in gilded wood, from the 18th century, with back and seat in original canework decorated with an antique leather cushion with a beautiful green patina. This refined seat perfectly illustrates the Rocaille aesthetic with its curved lines, its arched legs ending in scrolls, and its delicate floral sculptures on the belt and the uprights. The openwork backrest in natural canework, framed by moldings highlighted in gold, gives the whole lightness and transparency. The seat is covered with a period cracked leather, preserved in its original condition, adding to the authentic charm of the piece. This type of Louis XV style chair was intended for aristocratic interiors, reception rooms or private bedrooms. Today, it will bring a historical and decorative touch to a high-end
