Description

A fine Empire style gilt bronze six-light chandelier of European origin, authentic second half 19th century period piece. The central body and six elaborate candle arms are richly decorated with cast and hand-chased details depicting floral motifs, grape leaves, laurel wreaths, acanthus scrolls, and palmettes characteristic of the Empire period. The chandelier is suspended by three chains from an elaborate ceiling rose featuring leaf decoration. The lower section is elegantly finished with a pinecone finial. This exceptional example of European decorative arts demonstrates the refined craftsmanship and classical proportions characteristic of Empire style lighting fixtures. The combination of robust construction and delicate ornamentation makes this piece suitable for both period interiors and
