Description

Swiss artist, Casimir Reymond was both a painter and a sculptor. Trained at the École des Beaux-Arts in Geneva, he developed a style sensitive to light and atmosphere. Between 1929 and 1932, he stayed in Paris, where he participated in several notable exhibitions, thus integrating the artistic circles of the time. This oil on Bristol perfectly illustrates his sense of composition and color. The urban landscape, bathed in a subtle light, opens onto a marine horizon line where nature and traces of human activity mingle. The balance between the pictorial material and the delicacy of the subject testifies to the artist's mastery. Ideal work for lovers of landscapes imbued with poetry and Swiss artistic history of the 20th century. Dimensions: 47 x 27
