Description

Oil on canvas signed lower left by Henri-André Martin (1918-2004) depicting a view of Montmartre in Paris. Henri André Martin was an excellent painter; we are pleased to offer you the high quality of his work and the beauty of these works, which we have carefully selected. Henri André Martin was born in Lyon in January 1918. He came from a medical family. From a young age, his passion was painting, but, yielding to family influence, he chose medicine, while knowing how to divide his time between these two arts.... Throughout his career, he successfully combined medicine and painting, also occupying a prominent place in this art form, as embodied in a book on Van Gogh's illness, published in 1994. His pictorial oeuvre is very rich: paintings, silkscreen prints, and lithographs. He was awarded the Maurice Utrillo Prize in 1964 and a medal of honor from the Lyon Society of Fine Arts. He participated in numerous exhibitions in French and foreign galleries (New York, Frankfurt, Geneva, etc.), as well as the creation of highly bibliographical books, such as the "Bestiary of Insects" and the "Lyon of René Deroudille and Jean Albert Carlotti." He was a corresponding member of the Institut de France. He will be remembered by all as a brilliant surgeon, an esteemed master who knew how to handle both scalpel and brush with equal elegance. Contemplative yet active, he wanted to pursue painting, which was his vocation. A vocation that was encouraged by Joseph Lamberton, a painter and sculptor from Saint-Étienne, and by Henry Grosjean, who agreed to come and give painting lessons to my father during the summer at the family estate in Jasseron, Bresse. The Artistic Environment

Henri André Martin's friends were most often artists. Joseph Lamberton, Henry Grosjean and Pierre Eugène Montézin, Jean Carlotti, Jean Fusaro, André Cottavoz, and Jacques Truphémus, among the leaders of the Lyonnaise school, exhibited regularly at the Malaval Gallery, a gallery owned by my father and of which his wife Anne-Marie was the director. Among them are Mario Prassinos and Roland Oudot, who painted in Eygalières, Henri de Waroquier, Camille Hilaire, Louis Pons, and Michel Ciry. The latter two, very close friends with very different personalities, took turns spending long stays at our house in Eygalières. Joseph Alessandri, our neighbor, and Jean Cardot, permanent secretary of the Institut de France, were his dearest friends, but many others could be mentioned. My encounter, and subsequent friendship with Jean Souverbie, illustrates my father's personality well. Awards and Distinctions
