Description

Extremely rare: Lady Diana's gloves The gloves were a gift from Emma's godfather, a guest on the show Affaire Conclue. During a business trip in 2010, he participated in an auction of the SPENCER FRANCE family castle's assets. Originally, he had come to acquire one or more horse-drawn carriages, which are his great passion. Unfortunately, that day, he was unable to close a deal. To avoid leaving empty-handed, he decided to buy lot 749, which included some clothing, mainly gloves and an umbrella. There, he discovered children's gloves bearing a crowned "D" stamp. After some research, he discovered that all noble families stamp their children's clothing. Each one has a unique stamp, which belongs to them. Raymond then delves into the Spencer family tree, to discover that the only
