Description

A touching rural scene frozen in bronze, depicting a mother and child feeding the chickens. This 19th-century sculpture tenderly illustrates daily life, in a naturalistic and sensitive spirit typical of the period. The bronze work is finely executed, highlighting the gestures, the draping of the clothing, and the details of the scene. The current patina can be preserved in its original state or redone according to preference, restoring the shine to this touching scene without altering its original charm. A decorative piece full of poetry, which will delight lovers of genre scenes, animated sculptures, and antique bronzes.
