Description

This French giltwood mirror from the 19th century is an elegant example of refined craftsmanship. The arched frame is richly decorated with floral garlands, scrolling acanthus leaves, and a finely pierced crest featuring a central flower and shell motif. The border is adorned with delicate beading, adding refinement and balance to the overall design. The original gilding has developed a beautiful aged patina with natural craquelure and wear, enhancing the mirror's authentic antique character. Each corner is embellished with finely carved floral sprays, while the crest showcases the artistry and attention to detail typical of French decorative arts in the Louis XV and Napoleon III styles. The mirror plate shows light foxing consistent with age, which enriches its antique charm while
