Description

Large Napoleon III patinated mirror, 19th century. This sumptuous large mirror subtly embodies the elegance and rigor of the Louis XVI style, revisited in the 19th century with a subtle patina that gives it all the charm of a period piece. Its carved wooden frame features a refined decoration of pearls, crossed ribbons and acanthus leaves, typical of the neoclassical ornamental vocabulary of the 18th century. At the top, the pediment is distinguished by a rich molded plaster decoration, representing a delicate ribbon bow surmounting a central cartouche, framed by stylized foliage. This finely executed plaster work underlines the refinement of the mirror and gives it an additional decorative touch, all in lightness and elegance. The whole benefits from an old patina in soft tones - cream, pale gray
