Description

This stunning triptych wall mirror was made in the Parisian workshops of Miroir Brot in the 1920s. The mirrors can be folded or unfolded; the photos show it hanging flat on the wall. When folded, the panels are held in place by the original clasp. The mirror retains its original labels; see the photos for details. This mirror has some foxing to the original panels; please see all our photos for a closer look. This foxing is related to the age of the mirror and gives the glass a beautiful antique appearance. The dimensions given are for the mirror fully extended. Each panel is 58 cm wide. A stunning centerpiece for a living room, bedroom, bathroom, or dressing room. Miroir Brot was founded in Paris in 1826, and its renowned craftsmen continue to create beautiful mirrors today.
