Description

A fine terracotta sculpture depicting a lion, an iconic and beloved subject by Belgian artist Armand Fagotto. This work, with its powerful, expressive visual impact, captures the animal's pride and power with great intensity, rendered with vigorous and detailed modeling, particularly in the rendering of its mane and muscles. The lion, a universal symbol of strength and royalty, is depicted in an upright, dominant position, with a proud, attentive gaze, conveying to the viewer all the majesty of wild nature. The terracotta features an original patina with warm, natural tones, enhancing the sculpture's volumes and realism. The base bears the artist's engraved signature. A highly evocative work, a testament to Fagotto's refined sculptural art between the 19th and 20th centuries. Period: Late 19th century -
