Description

Piedmontese Louis XVI chest of drawers made of various woods measuring 82 x 66 x 39 cm in maximum depth. Elegant dresser from the last quarter of the 18th century. The piece of furniture, of rare refinement, has a semi-circular structure with a tripartite front with three drawers in the centre. The wooden sides, without drawers, are perfectly integrated into the curvilinear design of the cabinet. It is panelled in rosewood, rosewood and exotic woods, skilfully arranged with fine wood fillets that highlight the refined inlay. The top is in shaped marble adhering to the half-moon shape of the cabinet. The fluted truncated pyramid feet end in bronze finials, giving balance and momentum to the structure. The paintings and works of art published here are my
