Description

Charming cut-out painted wooden panel depicting a bouquet of flowers and foliage in vibrant colours. The piece stands out for its strong decorative impact, bold outlines and bright palette, making it a striking and scenographic object.The stylised rendering, marked contours and exuberant use of colour recall the artistic language of Emanuele Luzzati (Genoa, 1921-2007), renowned scenographer and illustrator, to whom this panel appears to be stylistically related. It should be noted, however, that this is not an attribution, but a stylistic suggestion.A rare and characterful piece, ideal both for collectors of 20th-century Ligurian art and for those seeking an original and scenographic decorative element.Period: 20th centuryMaterial: cut-out wood, painted in
