Description

Christ of the Outrages - "Christ of Patience" in carved and polychrome wood, Spain or southern Italy, 18th century Small devotional sculpture in carved and polychrome wood representing the seated Christ, crowned with thorns, holding the reed, in the meditative attitude known as the "Christ of Patience" (Cristo de la paciencia).

Description The body marked by the stigmata of flagellation is rendered with intensity, the slightly inclined head supporting the cheek, symbol of his suffering and resignation. The original polychromy, although partially worn, remains with its expressive accents of blood, typical of Spanish and southern Italian Baroque sculpture. Dimensions: Height 20 cm Condition Visible wear, losses and small old restorations. This intimate representation, of small format, was
