Description

A white terracotta vase...And some colored enamels...From the 1950s/60s...By a JAPANESE artist...I have a card for this artist but I haven't been able to decipher her name...In perfect condition...A completely original model...With intentional firing cracks...Cuts after shaping and before firing...!With pink, white, brown enamels...Even the earth is tinted in places...Note that it is just decorative because the deformations are not airtight...The way of making this vase is like bread, the earth swelled during firing leaving these tears...It is beautiful...!With a hollow mark on the bottom...If someone gives me information I will complete the file...The wooden box is original...Of course it's a unique piece...!Weight ... 2 kilos 777
