Description

This superb mid-19th century mahogany two-piece bookcase perfectly embodies the elegance and refinement of the Victorian era. The slightly recessed upper section opens with two glazed doors secured by an original lock, revealing two rack-mounted shelves. This arrangement allows for easy adjustment of the shelves to suit a variety of storage needs. The lower section of the cabinet is equally impressive, with two drawers adorned with brass handles and a double paneled door with channeled frames, also fitted with an authentic lock and fillet entry. Inside, an additional shelf provides practical storage space. The whole is crowned with a discreet cornice and rests on a sleek, stepped plinth, adding a touch of sophistication to this already majestic piece. This bookcase is not only
