Description

This rare natural amethyst specimen, featuring an exceptional calcite formation of brilliant crystals at its center, is a remarkable piece. It showcases a deep, vibrant purple crystal growth, with a white center section made up of ultra-brilliant faceted calcite crystals. This rare feature proves the quality of this specimen from Uruguay, a region renowned for its world-class amethyst deposits. This piece is presented on a custom-made metal base. Beyond its visual impact, this specimen is also valued for its metaphysical properties. The stalactite flower formation combines the calming and spiritual energy of amethyst with the high vibrational energy of stalactitic growth. Strongly associated with the crown and third eye chakras, it is said to promote spiritual awareness, inner peace, and emotional balance. The natural floral
